This volume comprises the proceedings of the Joint Meeting of the XIV International Conference on Ephemeroptera and XVIII International Symposium on Plecoptera, held between the 31st May and 5th June 2015 in Aberdeen, Scotland. The International Conferences on Ephemeroptera and Symposia on Plecoptera are held every three years and allow specialists on these orders to interact and present their work. The 2015 Joint Meeting was the first to be held in the United Kingdom and was hosted at the James Hutton Institute. Seventy five delegates from 29 countries attended the meeting and presented 35 oral presentations and 29 posters. The meeting consisted of sessions on phylogeny, taxonomy and systematics; general ecology; behavioural ecology; distribution and biogeography; adaptation and change; biodiversity and conservation; and morphology. The fifteen papers in this volume are representative of the papers and posters presented at the meeting, and were accepted after peer review by international specialists.

In addition to the scientific sessions there was a mid-conference field visit to Royal Deeside where delegates visited Balmoral Castle and the Glen Tanar Estate. The conference dinner was held at the Ardoe House Hotel. A second excursion, following the conference, visited Craigellachie on the River Spey and Burn O' Vat at Muir of Dinnet National Nature Reserve.

The editors would like to thank the many individuals that help with the meeting and the production of these proceedings. In particular, we would like to thank the following individuals who acted as manuscript reviewers: Javier Alba-Tercedor; Helen Barber-James; John Brittain; Louis Boumans; Ian Campbell; R. Edward DeWalt; Michael Dobson; Jean-Paul Gattoliat; Pete Grant; Boris Kondratieff; Maria-Angeles Puig; Michel Sartori; Pavel Sroka; Daniela Takyia; José Manuel Tierno de Figueiroa and André Wagner.

Finally, we would like to thank the Permanent Committee of the International Conferences on Ephemeroptera and the Standing Committee of the International Society of Plecopterologists for the opportunity to host the 2015 Joint Meeting and we look forward to the next meeting in Aracruz, Brazil in 2018.
